

Bio:

James is a software engineer at Google working on data analytics using machine learning. Previously he worked as a hardware engineer at various telecommunication companies designing wireless communications systems. He is married and proud father to two tri-lingual children at Holy Cross Greek School.